
What's SCCA?

Sports Car Club of America is one of the country's largest motorsports organizations. Activities range from professional racing and rallying to socializing. In between is a myriad of activity—road rallies, solo events (that's where it's just you and your car against the clock on a twisting course) and club racing, for those who want to be race car drivers. SCCA Pro Racing, a wholly-owned subsidiary of SCCA, Inc., organizes, officiates and sanctions the organization's professional motorsports offerings. SCCA Pro Racing's series include the Trans-Am Series—North America's longest continuously running road racing series and the World Challenge and the Pro Spec Racer Series.

SCCA IS LOCAL

There are over 100 local chapters of the SCCA all around the country—one's near you. You'll be involved in local events close to home and can make weekends of it with friends at divisional and national events as well. SCCA is like no other motorsports organization—because you're involved, because you help to plan, stage and run events, or compete in them.

YOU GET IN ON THE ACTION

If you're not into competing with your car, then you might want to join the thousands who officiate—timing and scoring, scrutineering (that's inspecting cars before they compete), working as flaggers, handling official's duties in the pits, on the starting grid and start-finish line. These are just a few of the things you can learn to do, as well as attend SCCA's racing driver schools and earn your competition license.

Take your choice. Either way, it's a way to enjoy yourself and share an interest with others who enjoy automobiles—whether it be a sedan, subcompact, compact, truck, van or sports car—or you don't even have to drive or own an automobile, that's not a requirement for membership in SCCA.

Complete the application on the reverse side and send in today.

You might want to give a membership to a friend or loved one, too.
